Ostriches and Their Keepers Find Arizona Congenial.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 15.—The climate of Arizona, in the Salt River valley, is practically the same as that of Southern Africa. This is the reason why ostriches flourish here. In the United States, there are a few ostriches in Phoenix, but they are not raised here. Today there are 14 grown birds and a number of chickens, all descendants of the one pair.

This Arizona herd is located on a beautiful 140-acre alfalfa field, irrigated with water from the Salt River. It is owned by a company of enterprising men in Phoenix and cared for by an Englishman from Africa, where he spent many years caring for ostriches.

"They are mean devils," said this Englishman. "Up to the time they are three or four years old, one can go in the field with them, but after that a man's life is not safe. They will attack any one who comes in the enclosure. They are very vicious and are always vicious. I carry a long forked stick to put against their necks when they come for me. Some times, though, I have low girls caught in the field without a stick."

"What do you do then?" asked the reporter for the Star. "Lie down," said the Englishman. "The birds only weigh about 300 pounds each, and after they have walked over you a while they will go away."

"They fight with their feet, kicking forward," he continued. "The blow is only effective at a height of at least three feet from the ground. It will kill a cow if it gets the full force of this kick, but they cannot peck much or do any damage in any way except by kicking in front of them."

"Can you ride them?" "A man can't stick on. They go so fast it cuts your wind off."

OSTRICHES ARE CENTENARIANS. "How long do they live?" "They never die," promptly responded the ostrich tender. "The birds domesticated in Africa fifty years ago are still alive and doing well. They have no disease, know of, and unless some accident happens to them they may live a hundred years, I think. If they break a leg they are gone, for it splinters into three pieces, and the ostrich must be killed."

As the Englishman and the reporter for The Star approached one end of a half-acre lot, which were penned a great black male and a smaller greyish female ostrich, the male came gliding down the lot like a pacing horse. The light in his small eyes was baleful and his attitude full of vengeance. "There's a bird I've attended to some time," said the keeper, "and look at him!"

The ostrich reared and plunged at the high hedge in his efforts to get at the man. One forgot the small size of the animal's brain, and its corresponding lack of the most ordinary sense. It looked almost fine as it sought a combat. After a fruitless effort to climb the fence the male commenced to chase the female about the yard.

"He's trying to make her go to the nest there and sit on the eggs. It's her turn; she's not attending to her duty and the old man knows it." The Englishman chuckled. "You see its this way," he continued. "Ostriches mate in pairs. The male digs the nest in the dirt. He rests his body on the breast bone and then scrapes with his feet. He revolves around until a hole about three feet across is scooped up and about a foot deep. He then shows the female where the nest is. She lays an egg every other day until she has laid fifteen. The male sits on the eggs at night and the female gets up, except for about an hour at noon, when the male takes her place to let her go to water and feed."

RAISING THE CHICKS. "The eggs take about forty-two days to hatch, and the big birds help the little ones out of the shells. They are good parents and raise nearly all the chicks. The female will lay about three or four eggs, and she will stop, so we take about thirty eggs from her and hatch them in the incubator. We let the birds hatch out the last fifteen eggs themselves after the weather gets warm. When both birds are off the nest and the water is very hot they put a little sand over the eggs to keep them from cooking."

"Is the business pay here in the United States?" asked the reporter. "No, I think it will soon, anyway. You see, we charge about $1 to the man and sell eggs for $1 apiece as curioes. There are no birds for sale, as none of the farms in the United States yet have enough. A full grown pair is worth about $500. The income is from the feathers. The United States imported last year three million dollars' worth of ostrich feathers and produced only about $15,000 worth. Each bird after it is 2 years old, averages about a pound of feathers. They are worth from $15 to $125 a pound. The feathers from a bird will average about $30. We shipped seventy pounds last year. There is an import duty of 20 per cent on ostrich feathers brought into this country."

"When the feathers are to be gathered we drive the birds into a close pen and put a sack over their heads. The large feathers are then cut off close to the body. Two months later the quills are easily pulled out. We pluck a bird every eight months. Only the feathers from the wings and tail are of any value."

"Do you have much trouble raising the chickens?"

"We get about half of the eggs hatched when we put them into the incubator. The first few days the chickens are hard to keep alive. When 4 weeks old they are safe and we consider them as worth at least $100 each. They grow very rapidly and at 4 months are nearly five feet tall. When full grown, at about 4 years, they will average fully eight feet. When they are very young we feed them a little grain, but the grown birds graze for themselves in the alfalfa fields. We figure that one acre of irrigated alfalfa is necessary for each bird. The small fields in which each pair is inclosed contains a half acre, and it takes four of these pens to carry the way through the year. The grass is growing in one while the birds are grazing in another."

THEY ARE SPEEDY. As the ostrich tender talked to the reporter he walked towards a young ostrich which stood regarding his approach with some fear. "Coo-ee, coo-ee, coo-ee," the man called softly. The bird cocked his head on one side and shifted nervously from one foot to the other. Finally his fear got the better of his curiosity and he turned and fled.

The flight of the ostrich over the ground is a marvelous motion. The bird stoops a little, leans forward and seems to spurn the sand with its feet. The body rocks or sways from side to side, moves on a perfect line and with tremendous rapidity. It seems but a second until it is at the far end of the pen. The distance is not sufficient to gain great headway, but the speed and the capability of speed upon the open desert must be very great. They are terribly afraid of dogs, and the smallest pup will stampede the ostrich here quicker than anything else. This is due to the fact that they have no means of defense against small animals. They will attack a man on horseback without hesitation.

The popular idea that ostrich eggs are hatched by the sun is an error as the birds attend very closely to sitting and they cover the big nestful of eggs with great skill, considering their great weight and comparative lack of plumage. The Scriptures say that ostriches know not its young, but this is also an error, as they take good care of the chickens, running with them all day long and brooding over them at night. The large birds, when not mated, all crowd together at night and sit on the ground while they sleep.

THEY HAVE NO INDIGESTION.

The young ostriches, when taken from the older birds, are put in an alfalfa field. On the third day after the chick leaves the shell he commences to swallow small pieces of rock and anything else hard he can find. The ostrich keeps this up all his life as his gizzard is an important part of his anatomy. It is a curious sight to watch the food going down a grown ostrich's neck. A ball of green and yellow matter just under the head and gradually works its way down the long bare neck into the body. One moment it projects in front of the bird, another it is at the back of his neck all the time presenting a most ludicrous appearance.

The feathers of the ostrich are of various shades and several colors, according to the age and sex of the bird. Those of the young are a mixture of white and yellow, turning to dark brown on the female and to black and white on the male. The most valuable are those of the adult male. Feathers of live birds are worth more than feathers from dead birds, and the feathers from the wild birds from Southern Africa are worth more than those taken from the domesticated ostrich. The wing feathers are the largest and most flexible and many are more or less white. Those of the tail are inferior in quality and color. The most valuable are the white or ivory wing feathers.

MARKETING THE FEATHERS. The various kinds of feathers are put into separate bags, and these are all graded according to the size of the feathers. They are then shipped to the feather dressers. By them they are tied on strings about four feet long singly or in bunches of two or three, according to their size. Then they are scoured, cleaned in soap and rinsed frequently when they are ready for the dyer.

The naturally black ostrich feather is dyed black. This is not only on account of its color, but also because of its character, as it has a fine-like down. This is the much prized glossy black of the commercial feather. After dyeing and more rinsing in water they are beaten on a board to free them from all particles of starch. After being "finished" they go to the sewing room, for single feathers are not used. Each feather now used in the trade consists of several feathers skillfully sewn together. After being sewed they are then steamed and curled and are then ready for the milliner.

In Africa the ostrich farms are very large, covering many thousands of acres, and this results in the loss of many birds through accidents. There are five ostrich farms in the United States—two in California, one in Arizona, one in Texas and one in Florida. There are probably about 500 ostriches on these five estates. In this country they are all kept in small inclosures, so there is less loss and they are more easily handled.

A CURIOUS CREATURE.

The bird itself is an interesting study. It is fierce and warlike under many conditions and always most disagreeable to have anything to do with. When an enemy approaches the bird draws himself to his full height and stands on tiptoe. Stretching his long neck forward, he raises his curious two-toed foot and kicks forward. Men on horseback are their pet aversion, and they have a decided objection to negroes. In Africa the savage ostrich is fought with a "tacky," which is simply a branch of a thorny bush, the mimosa, and this is waved in the bird's face until the infuriated rooster gets out of the way. The voice of the ostrich is a great contrast to its appearance, for it is like the roar of a lion and the cry of a hawk. In Africa are often misled by the sound.

When an ostrich dies his feathers are plucked and the thighs are eaten. The meat is stringy and usually tough, though some profess to be very fond of it. The eggs weigh about three pounds and taste about the same as a hen's eggs. It takes about an hour to cook one. The weight of one is equal to that of thirty hen's eggs.

Ostrich farming in the United States can hardly be said to be a great industry as yet, or in fact beyond the experimental stage, but there is considerable capital invested in it, and those who are in the business seem hopeful of large returns for the money and time they have expended in learning the business. The market is somewhat precarious for the feathers, as fashions change. There is not nearly so much profit in the feathers now as there was a few years ago, but prices are considered very good, and there seems to be no fear that their use will ever entirely cease, owing to the fact that these feathers make the best and handsomest plumes for any kind of head-gear decoration.

DYSPEPSIA CURED! AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

A Safe, Sure and Permanent Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach, Flatulency, Palpitation, Fermentation, Heart Burn and Constipation.

Read the following reasons for using American Dyspepsia Tablets

All other remedies claiming to cure indigestion and dyspepsia contain PEPsin in one of its forms, and as long as PEPsin is applied to a weak, or even healthy stomach in the shape of medicine, nature will cease to make it, and the DYSPEPSIA will be able to do without his "DOSE," and of course never be cured of his trouble. A stomach that will promptly digest food must make its own PEPsin and not rely upon medicine for this most important agent.

American Dyspepsia Tablets contain no PEPsin nor other PEPTIC agents, but are composed of four old and well-known vegetable remedies which, in combination, will soon effect a cure by restoring the stomach to its normal condition.

We furnish no book on the "STOMACH and its DISEASES," no ALMANAC, no prize for the LARGEST number of wrappers, but will send a trial box to any address free of cost.

AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA TABLETS are put up in 50c. packages, and are to be had at J. W. Gayle's and W. H. Averill's, or by addressing

THE AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA TABLET CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Sensible and Practical.

In his address Wednes day at the commencement exercises of the State Colored Normal School, at Frankfort, Prof. G. P. Russell, of Lexington, in the course of his remarks, said that the negro race had much to be proud of in its development since freedom; that directly after the war the people from the north flattered the negroes of the south to such an extent that they conceived that all things, political and social, could be obtained by simply demanding their rights. This is a mistake, as the fact exists that the negro has gotten fewer benefits since he commenced demanding his rights than before.

The true course for the negro to pursue in development and obtaining his rights is to win recognition on his merits; he must not wait for something to turn up, but, by his own industry and intelligence, produce something that the world needs and his recognition will be sure to come.

He said that the negro had left the trades, or that the trades have left him, and referred to the fact that all the trades were filled with negroes 25 or 30 years ago, while but few negroes are found in the trades today. He regretted the fact that his race were profligate with their earning, and a half million dollars were to-day invested in pianos and scarcely a respectable performer could be found in the State.

He regretted the influx of the negroes into cities and towns, thereby increasing the army of law breakers from the ranks of the idle and the vicious, and stated that the welfare of the negro could be best obtained by remaining on the farm.

He stated that, before the war, only 4 per cent of the negro population were found in the cities and towns, while the last census shows that more than 15 per cent of the negroes are now found there.

His address teemed with good advice to his race to accomplish their ends in life by proving themselves worthy of recognition instead of expecting to succeed by senselessly demanding their rights.

Sad Death.

It is with a sad heart that we chronicle the death of Mr. Sherry B. Wintersmith, which occurred at the home of his father, Mr. D. C. S. Wintersmith, in Louisville, on Wednesday morning, at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Wintersmith had made his home in this city for a number of years, being in the employ of the Allen-Bradley Co., and since then in the employ of the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company.

He was a capable and efficient officer, a popular, manly and companionable young man, whose friends were numbered alone by his acquaintance.

Some time since he was taken with typhoid fever, but he continued at his post for days after he should have been in bed under a doctor's care.

As soon as a physician was called he saw the gravity of the case, and Mr. Wintersmith was sent to his home in Louisville, where every thing that could be done for his relief; but the seeds of disease were too surely planted, and he rapidly sank until the end.

The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the remains were interred in Cave Hill Cemetery.

We have known Mr. Wintersmith from a youth, and he was always the same cheerful and obliging gentleman, ever ready for fun and jollity when it did not interfere with his duties. He was a faithful and conscientious member of the First Presbyterian Church of this city. To his stricken parents we extend our sincere sympathy.

Handsome New Residence at Bosque Bonita.

Mr. Geo. H. Watson has just let the contract for a handsome new house, to be erected on his "Bosque Bonita" farm, near Versailles, to Scott Bros., contractors.

The house is to be of frame and in modern colonial style throughout. It is to be 66 feet front by 66 feet back. There will be a parlor, library, dining room, servants' dining room, butler's pantry, storeroom, front and back hall, and front and back stairway on the lower floor. Cellar under the whole house. Veranda running 100 feet, with porte cochere.

On the second floor there will be five bed rooms, with dressing rooms attached; separate toilet and bath room; storeroom and linen closet.

A large attic over the whole of the house.

It is to be covered with shingles; all floors and woodwork throughout in quartered oak, hardwood finish, colonial detail; cabinet mantles, with book cases in walls in library.

The house will be heated with steam, lighted by gas, and have sanitary plumbing. The rooms are to be large and airy, with high ceilings.

The plans were drawn by that energetic and scientific young architect, Mr. Leo L. Oberwarth, of this city, through whom the contract was let, and is to cost, complete, $7,500.

It is to be one of the handsomest houses in the far-famed blue grass section.

"Digests what you eat."

Is Baby Too Thin?

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Well babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Children can't help but grow; they must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If that is so, don't give the baby a lot of medicine; just use your every-day common sense and help nature a little, and the way to do it is to add half a teaspoonful of to the baby's food three or four times a day. The gain will begin the very first day you give it. It seems to correct the digestion and gets the baby started right again. If the baby is nursing but does not thrive, then the mother should take the emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twenty-five years proves this fact.

FRANKFORT, MAY 27, 1899.

Club Rates.

By special arrangement with the publishers we are enabled to offer clubbing arrangements for the ROUNDABOUT with the Lexington Herald and the Press Transcript. To any one who pays the price of a year's subscription in advance we will furnish the ROUNDABOUT and the Daily Morning Herald for $6. To those wishing the ROUNDABOUT and Press-Transcript we can furnish the two papers at $1.25 per annum in advance. Now is your time to subscribe.

Closing Exercises.

The closing exercises of the Frankfort High School took place at the Opera House on Monday night in the presence of a very large crowd of our best citizens. There were fourteen graduates, the list of whom we gave in our last issue.

The program was carried out in a very acceptable manner, and it would be invidious in us to specify those who excelled.

The addresses and recitations gave evidence of careful training upon the part of their instructors and willing minds and hearts upon the part of the pupils.

Our city has great reason to be proud of our public schools and the work that is being so conscientiously and faithfully performed each year in the formation of character and guidance in the paths of knowledge of our young ladies and gentlemen who are graduated from within their precincts.

It should be a matter of pride upon the part of our city to extend a fostering hand to this noble work.

Frankfort Boys Get Home.

The Frankfort boys, who were in Capt. Gaines' Company, of the Third Kentucky Volunteers, have returned home. They did not all come at one time and the exact time of their home-coming was not known, so that there was no chance to give them a reception; but old Frankfort is just as glad to have her boys back as any of the towns which have given receptions to the distinct companies who went out from them.

The names of the young men are: Wm. T. Reading, Jr., Harry G. Donaldson, August Szymanski, Mervin Parent, Tom Johnson, John Quin, Tim Haly, Ed Burns, Henry Roy, George Thompson, George Turner, El Porter, Joe Steffe and George Kelly.

The boys brought a number of curiosities home with them, and are giving pleasure to their friends by exhibiting them.

One or two Cubans were also brought along as their mascots.

Flowers for Decoration Day.

We are requested to announce that all those who may wish to contribute flowers for decorating the graves of soldiers, on Tuesday, May 30th, will please bring them to the custom house on the morning of that day. A committee from the Woman's Relief Corps will be present and take charge of the donations.

It is hoped that there will be an abundance of flowers contributed, as there are a large number of graves to be decorated.

New Paper.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Graefenburg Banner, a new paper just established at Graefenburg, Swab county, by Mr. E. E. Harris, with Messrs. Stucker and Chowning as local editors.

The initial number is well printed, five columns to page, four page paper. It has a good share of advertising, and the local and general editorials are well written.

We welcome our new brethren to the fraternity of pencil-shovers and scissors clippers.

Made a Fine Officer.

Capt. Nevill M. Garrett, late Assistant Surgeon in the Third Kentucky Volunteers, returned home on Friday, having been mustered out of the service. Dr. Garrett made a first class officer, and has been highly complimented by his superior officers. He has been recommended for appointment to a similar position in the Regular Army under the new law. We will be sorry to give him up from our city; but we are confident that he will be appointed to the position he seeks, and that he will be well fitted by his experience in the volunteers for the place.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, who bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles found herself sound and well; now does her own household work, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this great discovery, at J. W. Gayle's drug store. Only 50 cents and $1, every bottle guaranteed.

Dawson City Destroyed.

The famous Dawson City, Alaska, was almost totally destroyed by fire on April 26th. A woman overturned a lamp and that started the fire. One hundred and eleven buildings were destroyed, involving a loss of over $4,000,000, with not a dollar of insurance.

The worst feature, however, is in the fact that there is no lumber with which to rebuild, the supply having been exhausted some time ago, and builders were awaiting a new supply before the fire.

Frankfort Boy Gets There.

Dr. Len H. Hughes, son of Mr. Jas. W. Hughes, of this city, who has been serving as a contract surgeon in the army in Cuba, has been appointed Assistant Surgeon in the Regular Army, and will remain on duty in Cuba until the American forces are withdrawn.

Dr. Hughes has made a capable and efficient officer, and we congratulate him upon his success in obtaining the appointment.

Bismark's Iron Nerve

If you want these qualities and the success they bring use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25c. at J. W. Gayle's drug store.

Brings a Cuban Boy Home With Him.

Lieut. Sam South, of the Henderson company, Third Kentucky Volunteers, while in Cuba, found a little Cuban boy, whose father and mother had been murdered by the Spanish. Taking pity upon the little waif, he cared for him during the time the regiment was in Cuba, and, when the time came to return to the United States, the little fellow would not consent to be left, and Lieut. South brought him with him to this city. The little chap is a bright and sprightly little one, and is a great pet with every body who has seen him.

Thanks.

We desire to return our thanks to Mr. August Szymanski for a present of a lot of curious and beautiful shells which he presented to us. Mr. Szymanski brought them with him from Cuba.

Painful Accident.

Dr. J. R. Ely was walking along on Washington street, on Saturday morning, when he slipped and fell, breaking the small bone in his ankle. Surgical attention was given and he is now attending to his practice, though compelled to go on crutches.

The Finest Yet.

We desire to acknowledge the receipt of a box of the finest strawberries that we have seen this season from our friend Mr. Josiah Penn. They are just simply superb, nearly all of them being the size of a walnut. Mr. Penn is delivering these berries to any who may wish them and they would do well to apply at once, before the best of the season's growth are gone.

Happy Ridge.

The farmers are getting along with their tobacco nicely.

Mrs. Bettie Semones and daughter, Maude, who have been visiting in Swab county, have returned home.

Mr. Morris Unless and wife, of Tennessee, are visiting his sister, Mrs. W. H. Lewis.

Miss Roann Goins had a new beau Sunday last, Mr. Bobbie McDonald.

We think it is a mistake that Maunna's Baby made in last writing of Mr. Ed Moore longing to be an old bachelor, as he was seen our buggy riding with two girls last Sunday, and had a smile on his face. Well now I say if it had been measured it would have been as long as my arm. That's right, Ed, that is the way to get them to think a lot of you.

Miss Ida Semones says she likes Green's at all times of the year.

Mrs. A. M. Miles, and Miss Agnes Brawner made a flying trip to Bagdad last Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Laura and Nora Penn, also Mr. Albert Hellah, of Eminence, attended church at Pleasant Ridge Sunday last.

Literary Notes.

In addition to the complete novel in the June Lippincott's—"Green Whistles," by Jeanette H. Walworth—there is an interesting and informing article on "The Summer's Birds," by the well-known ornithologist, Dr. Charles C. Abbott. Mr. R. H. Stoddard gives his personal recollections of the poet Whittier. "The Samoan Feast of Pilau" is entertainingly described by Owen Hall, while "Chemistry in the Kitchen," by Albert G. Evans, and "Fires in Metalliferous Mines," by John E. Bennett, claim the attention of the reader.

The number is rich in fiction, with, beside the novel, three lively short stories, as well as a pathetic study of a mining camp, by Theodore Gallagher, entitled "Father McGrath." The stories are: "The Opera-Glass," by Dora Read Goodale; "A Sentinel Reader," by Tello Ogden, and "King McDougal's Kitchen," by Alice Miriam Rounday.

The verse of the month is contributed by Margaret Gilman George, Geraldine Meyrick, and Eliza Calvert Hall.

June 18th to 20th the Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway will sell half rate tickets to St. Louis and return account of the "Elks".

Back to God's Country.

Mr. Ira S. Shy, who was a Sergeant in Company B, 18th U. S. Regulars, arrived here on Friday night, several days ahead of the time at which he was expected. He has been serving all through the Cuban and Philippine war. He left Manila in March and came by way of the Suez Canal. He has served something over 6 years in the Regular Army. He is the oldest son of Mr. W. T. Shy, of the Old Crow. He has made a splendid soldier and is glad to get back to God's country.

Thanks.

Some friend in Kansas City, Mo., has sent us the "May Day" issue of the Kansas City Times, which was brought out on the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of that city. It contains 68 pages of matter, giving a history of the city, with its vast railroad, financial, industrial and domestic advantages. It is a hummer from way back and reflects great credit upon its designers and publishers.

We desire to return our thanks to our unknown friend for his kindness in sending the paper.

In Uncle Sam's Waters.

The big Spanish cruiser, Reina Mercedes, sunk by the American fleet at Santiago, and raised by the Merritt Wrecking Co., was brought into Hampton Roads on Sunday, having been towed across in eight days. She will be placed on the docks at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, thoroughly repaired and then go into commission under the stars and stripes.

Musical Treat.

The young folks of the Church of the Good Shepherd have had on foot a grand musical entertainment for some time, and have been rehearsing therefor. They have secured the best of our local musical talent from all the churches of the city, and those of no church.

The entertainment will be given at the Opera House on Wednesday, May 31. It will be under the competent management of Prof. Wayland Graham, and that is all that is necessary to say on that point.

We give the program in another place.

If you love sweet music, artistic music, and to look at the prettiest girls the sun ever shone upon, go to the Opera House that night.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her work." This supreme relief for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by J. W. Gayle, druggist.

It makes no difference how bad the wound if you use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve; it will quickly heal and leave no scar. Tyler & Hemphill and Wm. McKee Hardie.

Kentucky Historical Society.

Invitations are out for the general meeting of the Kentucky Historical Society, June 7, at 11 o'clock a. m. Members of the Society throughout the State and in this city are expected to be present. The State Officers, the Mayor of Frankfort, Representatives of the Press, and many of the notable lawyers are invited to be present, along with other citizens who have contributed from time to time to the furnishing of the rooms and its glass cases with relics, newspapers, books and souvenirs, in which the history of the State is indicated and its customs described.

Other papers in the State are respectfully requested to copy this notice.

From Moro Castle.

Mr. Geo. Thompson, of the Third Kentucky Volunteers, when he came home from Cuba, brought a piece of one of the doors of Moro Castle, which he gave to Officer Zack T. Thomason. Mr. Thomason's son turned out a policeman's billy from the wood, and now Zack is as proud as a peacock of his new club.

Decided Success.

The closing exercises of the colored High School were held at the Opera House, on Tuesday night, in the presence of a very large and enthusiastic audience. The program was successfully carried out. The essays of the graduates, four in number, reflected great credit, not only upon the students, but upon Prof. W. H. Mayo, who has been untiring in his endeavors to make the work of his school a success. The singing and other exercises were exceedingly well rendered.

Prof. McHenry Rhoads, Superintendent of the City schools, and the teachers and graduates of the White High Schools, were present and enjoyed the performance very much indeed.

Kentucky Populist Convention.

In accordance with the action taken by the State Central Committee at its meeting held in the city of Louisville on February 27, 1890, a mass convention of the People's Party of Kentucky is hereby called to meet in the city of Frankfort, on Tuesday, July 27, 1890, at 12 o'clock noon, of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following State offices: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts, Attorney General, Secretary of State, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Commissioner of Agriculture, to be voted for as the candidates of said party at the election to be held November 7, 1890.

The delegates from the several Railroad Commissioners' Districts are requested to meet at the same time and place and nominate a candidate for the office of Railroad Commissioner for each of said districts. Tickets may be bought at reduced rates on all railroads, in Kentucky, for this convention. And it is earnestly hoped that every Populist who can possibly do so, will attend this convention and assist in the nomination of a ticket which will commend itself to the voters of Kentucky regardless of their party affiliations.

The dangerous assault made upon the freedom and purity of the ballot by the last Legislature makes it imperative that all voters should be alive to their privileges and responsibilities if they would preserve the blessings of liberty for their posterity. Let all Populists rally in defense of their homes, their wives and their children, and make this convention one to be long remembered in the history of our State.

Other persons please copy.

W. P. MAISH, Secretary.
